Sad

We went from processes taking 4 years where energy slipped away. Now 3 months - yes! We like to see results!

Sad

It has been stories of sads and mads over the years in GC - people coming from different traditions, we do not want to preach, you want people to experience what great things that can come out of this.

after an OST last year on the topic "soul of the company" I was called last days again to give feedback because the groups are not successful. But I shouldn't do this esoteric stuff - I basically work as a GC facilitator holistically and recommended a storytelling so that the groupleader can share their problems. What this is supposed to bring, it only takes time and costs money - and went into resistant outside they show up as very modern but inside they have fear to come in contact with themselves and each other and Success story of NiiT Foundation!

Working with the whole system. How it changed the board and how they "found" how smart the staff are... And the whole org flourishing.
"Persevere and they will see the light"

Glad ...
To be back after a couple of years. Coming from a corporate company, GC sounded very unrealistic for business purposes.

Glad.
CEO taking part in my training, has used GC coached by me before and knows it works but such a big step to implement in org. Two different worlds but they can be combined!

WPPF is hard to tell people - what it is and get people to understand. This is something that you have to experience - and then it is very strong/ deep

Glad -balancing the past and future

There is a shift in people, a lot of new ones coming in, bringing new wants and energy, and then the people holding space for the ones that have been here for a long time.
